

INDIA Good Homes

GOOD DESIGN CHANGES EVERYTHING

A Times of India Publication
VOLUME 10 ISSUE 4 JULY 2017 ₹120

@goodhomesmagazine
@goodhomesmagazineindia
@goodhomesindia

Time to celebrate
SMALL HOMES
IN A BIG WAY
with ideas that will realign the way you look at space

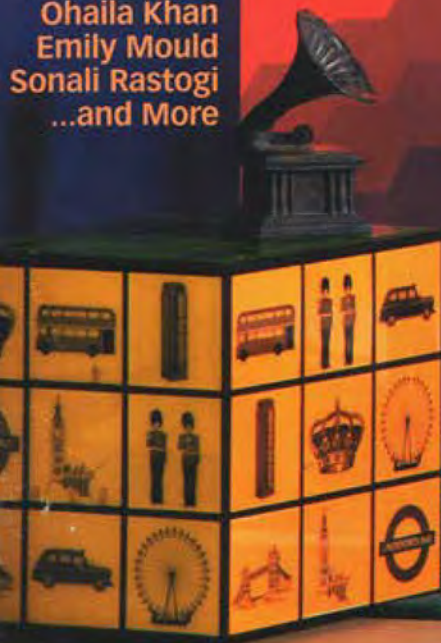

Smart Living

51

REALISTIC WAYS TO BRING THE CALM HOME

ALSO FEATURED
Ohaila Khan
Emily Mould
Sonali Rastogi
...and More

CONTENTS

JULY 2017

Their dreams, their principles, their ambitions, their challenges... our lessons. Meet some of the most interesting minds of the design world.

50

PEOPLE

EMILY MOULD
SONALI RASTOGI

60

EXPERT ADVICE

Our very own Nisha JamVwal answers your decor queries

66

SPECIAL FEATURE

51 GUIDELINES FOR A RESTFUL TRANSFORMATION

Ideas to create a spa-like home

Sonali Rastogi

BUILDING DREAMS

Threading the design ethos with perfection

FEATURE VANITA ARORA PHOTOGRAPH JATINDER MARWAHA

I'M MOST MATERIALISTIC ABOUT MY PROJECTS.

A graduate of the School of Planning and Architecture, New Delhi, Sonali Rastogi completed her specialisation in Housing and Urbanism from the Architectural Association, London, followed by a second Master's degree in Design Research Lab. With a strong fondness for art, Sonali wishes she had pursued it as she believes that it's necessary for architecture.

Having grown up in a home of architects, there was always design around her. With a keen eye for design, her favourite piece of furniture is the Eames chair. Currently involved in the Namami Gange project, Sonali's dream is to be part of museum projects that reflect India's rich history as well as scientific past.

“

I would like to exchange a day with an almost zen-like Japanese architect as they have clarity and spirituality.

At 80, I would love to see myself with an alive and thinking mind, and the potential to still share and contribute to this profession that I love.

— Sonali Rastogi, Founder & Partner, Morphogenesis